Press Release

FlexLink Systems US Opens Three New Regional Offices.

In order to enhance local support to its diverse customer base, FlexLink Systems, with US headquarters in Allentown, PA, has opened sales and applications offices in Greenville, SC and Phoenix, AZ in addition to expanding its Dallas, TX facility.

Establishing applications and project engineering support in Greenville, Phoenix and Dallas is a key component of our strategy to provide excellent local support to our strong customer base in these regions, says Paul Jarossy, Director of Marketing. Though certain centralized tasks help to provide scale effects and consistency in our Allentown headquarters, other activities such as applications and project engineering increase delivery speed and customer intimacy when performed locally, adds Jarossy.

These new offices follow FlexLink's recent opening of a facility in Appleton, WI in late 2006.
