Silicon Mountain Offers Conformal Coating Services for Enhanced PCB Protection

NAMPA, ID — June 2024 — Silicon Mountain, a family-owned leader in electronics manufacturing located in the heart of the Pacific Northwest, is proud to announce the availability of its conformal coating services. This service is designed to provide superior protection for printed circuit boards (PCBs), ensuring their reliability and longevity in various environmental conditions. Conformal coating is a lightweight, protective layer applied to PCBs that shields against heat, humidity, moisture, UV light, chemical contaminants, vibration, and abrasive materials.

Silicon Mountain's conformal coating services are part of their broader commitment to delivering high-quality, customized manufacturing solutions for clients ranging from startups to Fortune 500 companies. The company's comprehensive approach includes both low and high-volume production, enabling clients to swiftly transition from product development to market.

“Our goal is to offer clients the best possible protection for their PCBs while maintaining the highest standards of quality and efficiency,” said Kris Townsend, President of Silicon Mountain. “With over 50 years of combined engineering and manufacturing experience, our team is dedicated to providing tailored solutions that meet the unique needs of each customer.”

In addition to conformal coating, Silicon Mountain continues to offer a wide range of services, including surface mount technology (SMT), through-hole soldering, mechanical assembly, and higher-level assembly (HLA). The company's dedication to quality is reflected in its ISO 9001:2015 certification and commitment to RoHS compliance.
