

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Heller Industries Featured on World’s Greatest! TV Show During 66th Anniversary Celebration

Florham Park, NJ — April 2026 — Heller Industries, a global leader in advanced thermal solutions for electronics manufacturing, is proud to announce it has been selected to be featured on World’s Greatest!, the nationally televised series airing on Bloomberg TV that showcases exceptional companies and technologies across industries.

The feature provides an inside look at how Heller Industries designs, builds, and supports thermal solutions that address the evolving demands of today’s electronics and semiconductor manufacturers. The segment underscores Heller’s engineering-driven approach, long-standing market leadership, and customer-focused culture—values that have defined the company for more than six decades.

Produced by How2Media, World’s Greatest! highlights organizations that push their industries forward through innovation, proven performance, and customer impact. Heller Industries’ selection reflects its long-standing role as a trusted partner to electronics and semiconductor manufacturers seeking precise, repeatable, and scalable thermal processing solutions.

“This feature captures the essence of what Heller Industries does best—combining deep thermal process knowledge with real-world manufacturing insight,” said David Heller, CEO of Heller Industries. “It highlights not only our technology, but also the talent behind it and our culture of collaboration that allows us to say ‘yes’ to customers facing today’s toughest process challenges.”

The video also introduces the people behind the technology—Heller’s engineering, manufacturing, and support teams—underscoring the company’s customer-centric philosophy and hands-on approach to solving application-specific challenges. This includes close collaboration with customers to optimize thermal processes as packaging complexity, materials, and performance demands continue to evolve.

Heller Industries’ feature comes at a notable milestone, as the company celebrates its 66th anniversary. Over more than six decades, Heller has continuously adapted its technology portfolio to meet the changing needs of the electronics manufacturing industry while maintaining a focus on quality, innovation, and long-term customer partnerships.

“Sixty-six years in this industry is a reflection of trust—trust from our customers, our partners, and our employees,” added David Heller. “Being recognized on World’s Greatest! during this anniversary year reinforces our mission to remain at the forefront of thermal solutions for SMT and semiconductor packaging.”

Industry professionals are invited to view the full segment for an in-depth look at how Heller Industries continues to advance thermal processing technology—leveraging experience, engineering expertise, and a customer-first mindset to support the future of electronics manufacturing.

Media Contact:

Paul Lancaster, Vice President of Sales & Marketing, Heller Industries

plancaster@hellerindustries.com