RBB Celebrates the Retirement of Wayne Reising, Longest Serving Team Member

Wooster, OH – January 2025 – RBB, a leading provider of custom electronics manufacturing, announces the retirement of Wayne Reising, Industrial Control Panels Assembly Specialist, after an extraordinary career spanning 47 years and 7 months. Reising holds the distinction of being RBB's longest-serving employee, leaving a legacy of dedication, excellence, and mentorship that has shaped the company's culture and operations for nearly half a century.

Reising joined RBB in 1977, embarking on a journey that paralleled the company's own evolution in the electronics manufacturing industry. Over the years, he became known for his technical expertise, problem-solving skills, and unwavering commitment to quality. His work in assembling industrial control panels has been instrumental in delivering innovative and reliable solutions to RBB's clients.

"Wayne's contributions to RBB are immeasurable," said Jeff Schartiger, RBB Operations Manager. "He has been a cornerstone of our team and an inspiration to employees at every level. His legacy will remain an integral part of RBB's story."

Wayne's retirement marks not only the end of an era but also a celebration of a career built on passion and precision. His colleagues describe him as a dependable, knowledgeable, and kind-hearted professional who consistently led by example. Dave Hill, a long-time colleague with more than 40 years at RBB, reflects, "Wayne has been a mentor to so many of us. His dedication to his craft and his ability to share knowledge have made a lasting impact."

Cheryl Thompson, who has worked alongside Wayne for 25 years, adds, "Wayne's reliability and depth of experience are unmatched. We'll miss his steady presence on the production floor."

As RBB bids farewell to Wayne, the company expresses its deepest gratitude for his decades of service and wishes him all the best in his well-deserved retirement.

To honor Wayne's remarkable tenure, RBB held a retirement celebration during which employees and leadership gathered to share memories, express their appreciation, and send him off with heartfelt wishes.
