SolderKing Earns Bronze EcoVadis Medal for Second Consecutive Year

SolderKing Assembly Materials Ltd, a leading UK-based manufacturer of soldering materials and consumables, has been awarded a Bronze Medal by EcoVadis for the second consecutive year, recognising the company's continued commitment to responsible and sustainable business practices.

The EcoVadis Bronze Medal places SolderKing among the top 35% of companies assessed by EcoVadis within the past 12 months. SolderKing's performance also ranks highly within its industry, placing in the top 21% overall, top 30% for Environment, and top 24% for Labour and Human Rights among companies in the 'Manufacture of other chemical products n.e.c.' sector.

Chris Ward, Chief Operating Officer at SolderKing said: "We're proud to have achieved the EcoVadis Bronze Medal for a second year running. It demonstrates the steady progress we are making as we integrate sustainability into our day-to-day operations. We view this recognition not as an endpoint, but as motivation to continue improving in every area of our business."

EcoVadis medals acknowledge a company's achievements relative to other assessed organisations across its global database. They highlight positive intent and continuous improvement in sustainability practices, rather than serve as a certification or endorsement of specific products or services.

The recognition builds on SolderKing's ongoing efforts to advance environmental responsibility, strengthen supply chain transparency, and uphold ethical standards throughout its operations. The company continues to invest in process efficiency and material innovation to reduce its environmental footprint while maintaining the quality and reliability its customers expect.
